BOX 1 FOLDER 16

NAL, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 24, 1901.

A Fair Student of Home Architecture.

Miss Ethel Fifield is a gifted young woman of Salem, Mass., who is now in Atlanta, the guest of Mrs. John M. Graham.

Along with her social gifts, Miss Fifield is a student of household economics and will speak before the Woman's Club next Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock on the subject "The Boston School of Housekeeping."

The address will be a rare treat.

Miss Fifield is not the type, the formidable missionary, that sometimes comes to make addresses to us, but is a very charming young woman, and the Atlanta people are fortunate that she has been induced to address the club because the club and its friends will undoubtedly find it interesting to hear what she has to say.

Miss Fifield is a graduate of Smith college and of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where she made a special study of architecture.

She is a lecturer on home architecture and art in the home at the Boston School of Housekeeping. That school is a most interesting institution, the faculty of which includes prominent professors of Harvard and of other leading institutions.

Miss Fifield is also a writer for leading periodicals on art and architecture.

MISS ETHEL FIFIELD, OF SALEM,
MASS.
