General Information Repair job. Mrs. Sullivan brought in the broken plate with the lettering on it which we are to do over. We are also to get a sheet of light opal which covers the lettering and we should look up the heavy protection glass for the outside. She will send the dimensions of this glass. This should all be ready for our setters to put in place when they set the All Souls' window.

Mr. Carlisle wrote: "After Mrs. Sullivan's departure for Boston on looking the window over I find that it also contains a figure, and under separate cover I am sending the portion I could recover. I am also enclosing a rough sketch showing as near as possible the dimensions. The overall dimensions appear to be 4'7". Inside it appears to be 3'9½" x 6'9", and there is a 1¼" copper frame surrounding this. I could not tell whether the guard glass fits in the copper frame or is outside."

Paint the new panel with the decorative border and lettering, and prepare a new piece for the smaller section (a broken fragment of which they sent us)

See diagram sent by Mr. Carlisle.
