O.E.S. says aisle windows receive good light with neighboring buildings and trees at some distance.

Mr. Knox is going to work on a plan for the aisle windows - they should probably start with Paul through St. Augustine and St. Francis in the earlier ones. It is just possible that the series might go back to Old Testament times. Then he wants to include Tinsdale, Guttenberg, possibly Calvin and Luther, surely Roger Williams, & possibly contrast him with Jonathan Edwards for the Pilgrims. The Wesleys, John preaching in coal fields, and I think it was Charles preaching at his father's Grave. Knox has old lithograph of Charles Wesley, preaching to the Indians, and one of John preaching on father's tombstone.). Asbury (Circuit riders). It is possible that they might include some women, for instance, Susannah Wesley. She could be paired with Sarah of the Old Testament if we went back there.

Knox gave me the names of books, "The Rediscovery of John Wesley" by George Croft Cell (taught at B.U.). He also recommended the book, "Living Abundantly", by Kirby Paige, published by Farrar and Rinehart, New York 44.
