General Information Dr. Neale, and Mother Harriet Monsell.....

~~XX~~ in the larger medallion below the figure of Dr. Neale, he is represented writing hymn, while the smaller medallions are devoted to the Sisters of Saint Margaret, - their work of nursing above, and arriving in the United States (passing the Statue of Liberty) below. In the head of the lancet is the symbol of the Society of Saint Margaret, and in the base a text from the Psalms (9:18) "the needy shall not...be forgotten"... suggesting the service of Saint Margaret Sisters to God's needy ones. (Refer to photograph of the Dr. Neale window in the Conventual Church, Cambridge, to show a little more of the character we have in mind.)

Under the figure of Mother Harriet Monsell is the dominant medallion representing Dr. Carter teaching the Sisters, while the smaller ones symbolize a Sister Receiving a penitent girl and the school at Mendham, New Jersey. Above is the Lamb of God, symbol of the Community of S. John the Baptist, and at the base is a text from First Peter (4;19) "Commit the keeping of souls to Him", suggesting the Sisters essential work.
