General Information 27 windows, with simple leaded background, something like Attleboro and Dartmouth. Perhaps somewhat more formal, with symbols as indicated in the key drawing, arranged quite freely, but not too regular and formal a plan. No lettering - rather light fields with colorful symbols, but going darker down around the altar to the three central windows. The Trinity, in deeper, richer color and design.

If there are any questions, get in touch with Mr. Walsh.

Make typical sketch of a group of five or six side windows, and possibly the central three behind the altar. First make rough sketches and show them to Kennedy before developing further for submission to the Sister
