He is represented with his usual symbols, the book and pen for his Gospel writings and the winged ox as one of the four Evangelists.

In the background are the caduceus, and the palette and brush, suggesting the tradition of the physician and artist.

A member of the angelic choir bears a harp, below.