

Price: $2400.

Profit: $221.47 - .093% (installation charges plus $50. for changes not included)

Nº 5317 J

Place Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania
Building Church of the Redeemer
Date of Completion Oct. 1970
Persons Interested Mrs. David Halliday
Installation: ?

Minister Denomination

Architect

Donor - wants protection glass.

Vents

Position in Church Sacristy Window - 3 panels, each 19 1/2 x 43 1/2"
Sight size of opening is 18 1/2" x 42 1/2"

Height from floor Protection Glass Groove Rabbet Metal Stone Wood WOOD.

Exposure 17 Ft. @ $141.11 per Ft. Footage

Inscription Hugh Savage Clark
Beloved Rector of
This Church PARISH
1934 - 1970
changed by Mrs. Halliday

Design wanted Staging

Templates Blueprints

General Information Texts from "HORTULUS".

Figure of Canon Clark in gardening clothes - wearing a maroon jacket, bending over flowers (weeding?).

The texts from Strabos' "HORTULUS" that Canon Clark marked, composes beautifully. In the firstpanel, the introduction to the cultivation of gardens, - "A quiet life has many rewards: not least of these Is the joy that comes To him who devotes himself to the art, - the joy that comes of devoting himself to a garden."

Then at the top of the centre panel, - "Now I must summon all my skill", and continuing in the third, - "all my learning, all my eloquence, to master The names and virtues of this noble harvest, That this my lowly subject may receive The highest honor that my art can give."

Then the dedication across the base, - "God give you the crown of eternal life, the palm that is green for ever. To this my prayer may the Father, The Son, and the Holy Ghost grant Their Amen."

Below the figure of the gardener is a space for a personal inscription or dedication. (Orchids and forget-me-nots will both be included.)