Technology Matrons' Christmas Party, Lobby, Bldg. 7.

CHRISTMAS COMES BUT ONCE A YEAR

Christmas came to MIT last week.

Thursday afternoon (Dec. 14) beneath wreaths and evergreen ropes in the Main Lobby at 77 Mass. Ave., the Technology Matrons held their annual Christmas Party. Faculty and office, laboratory and department personnel gathered on their way home from work for a first in Christmas entertainment at MIT.

Entertainment was provided by three musical groups carolling from the balcony. First on the program was the Matrons Choral Group under the direction of Mrs. George Scatchard, wife of Dr. George Scatchard, Professor Emeritus and Honorary Lecturer in Chemistry. Mrs. Julius A. Stratton then presented a surprise gift--a silver liqueur tray complete with cordial cups--from the Technology Matrons to Mrs. Scatchard who has directed the Matrons Choral Group for thirty years.

The Brass Choir, a group of student instrumentalists directed by Andrew Kazdin, and the "Logarithms", a double quartet of undergraduate students, also performed.

Many smiling faces and gay carolling were part of the scene at the MIT Faculty Club Sunday (Dec. 17) from 3-5 p.m. Children of the Electronic Systems Laboratory employes were guests at the Lab's 15th annual Children's Christmas Party. Acting Santa Claus was Jim Roberge, and he presented each child with balloons, candy, cookies and a gift.

Each year, the Electronic Systems Lab organizes the party so that all employes whether they have children or not bring a gift for a particular age group. Remaining gifts, balloons and candy are donated then to the Salvation Army which, in turn, provides a party for needy Cambridge children.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS IS A SAFE CHRISTMAS

Taking a few precautions may insure a safe Christmas for your family this year. When you buy the Christmas tree, cut it at an angle three or four inches above the original cut, and then place it in a bucket of sand and water. Your safest bet for electrical appliances, artificial snow, flameproof crepe paper, etc., are those approved by Underwriters Laboratories, Inc. The place to dispose of dried greens is away from the house, for if they are burned the fire is explosive.

HALT IN THE NAME OF THE LAW

Louis Laing, a guard at Lincoln Laboratory, has a companion who patrols Lincoln's parking areas with him and has been doing so for three years. Laing's friend is Mac, a boxer dog.

The man and the dog are well-known to all Lincoln Lab people. From 7:45 until 9:00 a.m., Lou and Mac direct traffic at the entrance to the Lab. Mac takes his job very seriously. At his post--beside Lou--he remains stationary and will not move for anyone. The rest of the day the two may be seen checking the various areas for parking violations or flat tires.

Lou and Mac spend much of their day together. Mac is the only dog in Lexington allowed into Lincoln's cafeteria. He usually joins Lou for breakfast in the morning and often accompanies him at lunch. Mac's owners, Dr. and Mrs. Wheeler of Wood St. --neighbors of Lincoln Lab--approve of the situation and were very surprised when after being away for nine months and returning home the first thing Mac did was visit Lou.

Lou has been with the Security Group at Lincoln for 10 years.

Lou and Mac.

NEARLY THERE

Latest Greater Boston United Fund statistics show the MIT community's total giving at $61,373--just short of the hoped-for $65,000. Dean Robert Holden, drive chairman, is very pleased with MIT's contribution to the more than 200 health, welfare and service agencies which depend on the United Fund. There may still be some contributions outstanding, and these should go to the MIT Chapter Fund Committee as soon as possible.

TWO MORE SHOPPING DAYS

If you are a late Christmas shopper, perhaps a print or drawing by an artist such as Picasso, Matisse, Miro, Utrillo, Leger, Chagall, Daumier or Durer might interest someone on your gift list. There are still prints and original drawings ranging from 17th Century art to contemporary graphic art on sale in MIT's Hayden Gallery, and the sale will continue until noon, December 22.

The works were assembled from the Boston, New York, Chicago and Dallas areas, and in many cases the participating artists and dealers allowed a generous discount which is reflected in the price of each. The exhibition is jointly sponsored by MIT's Art Committee and the Faculty Museum Committee.

The Gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, and purchases may be picked up at the end of each day.

Going... Going... GONE.

CHRISTMAS CASH

Because of the early closing of the Institute on Friday noon, December 22, the cashier's office will provide check cashing service that day only from 9:30 to 11:00 a.m.
