GUYS & DOLLS AND THE GOVERNOR'S HAT

It all began when the cast of "HMS Pinafore" was warming up for opening night with the music from "Guys & Dolls." From a casual suggestion, the MIT Classical Musical Society was formed as a sort of summer replacement for the Gilbert and Sullivan Society. "Guys & Dolls," opening in the Little Theatre Friday evening (Aug. 13) is a direct outcome of that rehearsal last fall.

A minor production problem was getting hold of a cowboy hat, to be worn by an innocent western stranger in the opening scene. Through the kindness of a hat company and Gov. Love of Colorado, Gov. Volpe returned from the National Governors Conference bearing a large white Stetson. Last week he presented it to Juan Meyer ('66, of Caracas, Venezuela) who will play the role of the stranger about to be duped by Damon Runyon's shameless Broadway skills.

GUY & DOLL: Juan Meyer (with trophy) and Anne Taylor

Director of the show is Margaret Kraatz (Aeroelastic Lab) whose previous experience has included several student productions at Dennison University. Cast members include Douglas Maurer (Project MAC), Norman Rubin ('66), Anne Taylor (RLE), John Ranier (Civil Eng.), Herb Meily (Lincoln) and Maury Lanman (Apollo). Norman Kaderlan (Housing Office) and David Walden (Lincoln), who is also a member of the cast, are co-producers.

Performances are at 8:30 p.m. and will continue on Aug. 14, 17, 18, 19 and 20. Tickets are $1.50 and may be purchased daily, noon-2 p.m., in the Bldg. 10 Lobby, or reserved at ext. 2910.

CATALOGUE OF VIRTUES

Major changes in the undergraduate curriculum occasioned a massive overhaul of the General Catalogue issued last week. Revisions are carried on throughout the year by the Registrar's Office, but the big change this year resulted in a catalogue which is 30-40% new material. The yellow insert in the center of the book, containing the curricular specifications for returning undergraduates, will be retained in the next two editions, until the present sophomore class is graduated.

Publication figures are impressive: 67,000 catalogues used a total of 142,000 pounds of paper, not including covers. This year there are three different editions: two green -- one for general use and one glossy covered, for desk copies, and one blue--without yellow pages, for distribution primarily to prospective students.

Distribution of the two-pound catalogue is a weighty matter too. The Admissions Office mails or dispenses to visitors more than half; thousands are distributed to students through the Information Office, while the Mail Service tries to be sure that there is at least one copy in every office.

ADS INFINITUM

There are so many requests for ads in Tech Talk that it is possible to run only one ad for each person in each issue, and ads cannot be repeated. Limitation of space frequently means the ad page is filled before the deadline is reached. When this happens, excess ads are published in the following issue. Please include your name and extension or room number on your ad and send it in early.

MASTER MANAGER

"He can do more things in less time and with less fluster than anyone else I know," Prof. D. V. Brown says of Dean Howard W. Johnson of the Sloan School of Management. That may be the key to his impressive accomplishments at MIT. In the six years he has been dean, the graduate program in management (including a doctoral program) has doubled in size, several new programs in research and education have been started, and the new Hermann Building has risen to afford more space for his crowded school.

In January Dean Johnson will leave MIT to become executive vice president for corporate development at Federated Department Stores, Inc. He will be responsible for long range planning and development of management resources for the largest retail merchandising concern in the U.S. Among the stores to benefit from Dean Johnson's unflustered leadership will be Filene's in Boston.

BLOOD COUNT

Though both 1964 and 1965 blood drives at the Institute resulted in record peacetime collections for the Red Cross Blood Bank, use of this blood has also risen sharply. The Blood Bank statement of June 30 this year indicated that nearly 45% of our blood had been used, an increase of 11% over the past two years.

At the time of the statement, 211 members of the MIT community and their immediate families had used blood, half of these five or more pints. Half a dozen users required more than 15 pints each -- a frightening amount when considered at $25 to $35 a pint, not to mention the price of a life.

Demands resulting from the CEA explosion and requests by 24 members of the community are being processed and will place an even greater drain on MIT's supply. MIT still has a good balance, but off-season donations may be credited to our account if given at the Boston Chapter office of the Red Cross (17 Gloucester St. in Boston). Hours are MWF 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and TTh 2-7:30 p.m. Blood credit is the best credit.

Eleanor Bartlett checking out the new Dewey...

...As movers pack up the old.

LARGE VOLUME MOVE

As the first occupant of the new Hermann Building, Dewey Library will finally have enough space to house itself all under one roof. For years, older journals have been kept in storage in the Engineering Library and the political science library has been housed in Hayden. The carpeted first floor of the new Dewey will house journals and reference works for both industrial management and political science. Stacks and the industrial relations collection will occupy the second level.

The move took several weeks of planning and poring over blueprints, figuring out shelf space. Several more weeks of actual moving will be required. Row after row of books, packed into an ordered series of boxes and loaded on carts, go down the Sloan elevator, through the parking garage, and up the Hermann elevator to new shelves. Books classified by the Dewey (no relation) Decimal System are tightly packed onto the new shelves, while those with the Library of Congress classification now used go onto shelves which leave plenty of room for growth.

In charge of the move is Eleanor Bartlett, MIT Archives Librarian, who brings sure knowledge to the job. Twice before she has moved the ever-expanding Dewey Library: from Bldg. 5 to Hayden, and from Hayden to Sloan. Her first moving assignment, fifteen years ago, was the massive move from Bldg. 10 to Hayden Library. All others since -- including all of the Dewey moves, and Lindgren Library last year -- have been easy in comparison, she says.

MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DANCE

The Graduate Student Council will present an informal summer dance on Saturday night (Aug. 14) from 8:30 to midnight in the Faculty Club, with music by Larry Lane. The dance is open to all members of the community, and tickets (at $2 per couple) may be purchased at the door.
