MASSACHUSETTS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

May 15, 1968

Silver for Sal; Maria obviously approves.

WELL DESERVED

There was a special thrill for MIT people who attended the Awards Convocation on May 4 when President Johnson presented the first Murphy Award to a very surprised and delighted Salvatore Lauricella of the Dining Service. Special guests in the audience included Mrs. Lauricella and their daughters, along with Mrs. Murphy and Miss Linda Murphy, for whom the award has special meaning.

Sal, who came to MIT in 1951, was manager of the dining services in Ashdown, Baker and Burton until last fall when he took over the dining rooms in the Stratton Center. Despite the traditional student complaints about food, he has worked with imagination to improve the bill of fare. Special dinners and parties he has arranged could not have been done better at a first class restaurant, and he was also the happy host of the popular springtime clambakes and barbecues held on Briggs Field. Though there are still gripes about the food, there has never been one about Sal.

The presentation of the Murphy Award also brought pleased relief to the award committee. No fewer than twenty suggestions of likely recipients were made this year, including secretaries, matrons, janitors and technicians, so that the final decision was difficult and time consuming. Because everyone who was nominated this year was eligible to receive the award, nomination letters will be kept on file, in anticipation that the same people will be suggested again in future years.

NAUTICAL NOTES

The almost summery weather last week left nearly everyone at the Institute with a desire to go to the seashore. Some did. On Wednesday, President Johnson and other representatives of MIT were found at harborside in Woods Hole for the signing of a formal memorandum of agreement between Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution and the Institute.

The agreement establishes a program for graduate studies in which doctorates will be awarded jointly by both institutions. With the new arrangement, all laboratory and teaching facilities, including research vessels, will be available to students in either school.

Closer to home, the Hart Nautical Museum is proud of several new exhibits. Chief among them is the guided missile destroyer USS Cochrane, named for the late Vice Admiral Edward L. Cochrane who was vice president of the Institute until his death in 1951. The model of the Cochrane was unveiled by Mrs. Cochrane, who has kindly lent ten models, including the SS United States and the SS Independence, from Admiral Cochrane's collection to our museum.

CALENDAR JOTTINGS

There's free theatre this weekend, courtesy of Senior House. On Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 in the Little Theatre, the Senior House players will be presenting "Pantagleize," a comedy by Michel de Ghelderode. Written in 1929, the play is the story of "an anonymous non-entity who, in one day of revolution and chaos, discovers his destiny, love, death, and the comic and tragic confusions of being alive." It sounds timely, don't you think?

Ever wonder what you're going to do when it comes time to retire? You may pick up some ideas next week at the annual 60-Plus Hobby Show to be held at Horticultural Hall from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Thursday (May 23). Sponsored by United Community Services, a United Fund agency, the show is composed of exhibits and demonstrations of hobbies which make retirement a lively time for many of our older citizens.

LIS COMMENCEMENT

Next Thursday (May 23) can't come too soon for nearly two-dozen nighttime scholars at the Lowell Institute School. That's when two years' of long evening study in electrical or mechanical courses will pay off in graduation certificates. Graduation speaker this year is Col. Jino J. D'Alessandro, USMC (Ret.), a member of the Lowell Institute School Class of 1932. Constantine Simonides, Assistant to President Johnson, will bring greetings from MIT, and Mr. John B. Lowell will award the certificates. Everyone is invited to the ceremony which will take place in the Little Theatre at 8:30 p.m.

The annual LIS Alumni Association dinner will be held on May 24, beginning at 5:30 p.m. in the Faculty Club. Speaker at this affair will be Amory H. Waite, Jr., of the LIS Class of 1926. Reservations may be made through the LIS Office, Ext. 4895.

SMALL'S SUMMER SCHOOL

After five years of operation, the Technology Nursery School will be running its first summer session this year. There are still a few openings in the class of three to five-and-a-half-year-olds which will be held in Eastgate, daily from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. from June 24 through August 2. If you have an eligible child and would like further information, call Mrs. Charles Berg at 232-3281.

BURSAR'S BONANZA

How are your vacation plans coming? The Bursar's Office is eager to help out. Once again the First National City Bank, suppliers of the Institute's traveler's checks, is having a May sale. Maximum charge for the checks, during this month only, is $2, so that any amount of checks you buy over $200 is free. It's really a great bargain because traveler's checks are loss-proof and never expire. You can buy them daily from 9 to 5 in the Bursar's Office, Room 10-180.

Guy and Maurice with their remarkable triumph.

SWEET DREAMS

They come true for Guy Morac, pastry chef at Ashdown House, and his partner, Maurice Leduc, who operates a pastry shop in Boston. But the dreams are far from bedtime reveries -- they are hundreds of hours of late night work, and they pay off. For the second year in a row, Guy and Maurice have handily carried off first prize at the New England Culinary Exhibit for their complete confectionery sculpture.

This year's entry, also exhibited last week in Ashdown's dining room, was a four-foot replica of the Arc d'Triomphe built entirely with sugar -- 125 pounds of it. The two confection masters spent some 300 hours building it, which, Guy says, is very difficult to do when spring comes and long evenings beg to be spent outdoors.

FACULTY NOTES

At its recent annual meeting, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences elected 103 new Fellows, ten of them from MIT: Dean Robert A. Alberty of the School of Science; Professor Richard M. Douglas of humanities; Professor Jay W. Forrester of the Sloan School; Professor Harvey P. Greenspan of mathematics; Professor Everett E. Hagan of economics; Professor Edwin Kuh of the Sloan School; Professor Roy Lamson of humanities; Professor Marvin L. Minsky of electrical engineering; Dr. Jack P. Ruina, vice president for special laboratories and Professor Steven Weinberg of physics.

Three young members of the faculty were honored with Everett Moore Baker awards for outstanding undergraduate teaching at the Awards Convocation. They are John C. Graves of humanities and Robert J. Kolenkow and Rainer Weiss of Physics.
