Staircase window in Gilbert W. Lee's residence. House built twenty years ago with window by Tiffany "Pandora" cost $1200. Window was too dark, a made light unsatisfactory. They want to put another window in same house so as to be able to sell it to better advantage; one to cost between four and five hundred dollars, in a very light tone of color. No figure work whatever would be required, but a nice geometrical or floral treatment, with perhaps some strips of clear glass interspersed with the crackle glass and color. The hall is finished in brown oak and tan colors.

Connick suggested ornamental composition in whites, golds, and bits of pure color
