Church of the Incarnation Lynn. Mass.
Broad and Cecil Streets

679 Oct 1889

The Church in Lynn—There are two parishes in Lynn, besides a third at Swampscott, practically a part of the city, where the Rev. Edward Tillotson is doing such good work among the permanent population in winter as well as the numerous summer visitors. The largest Lynn church is St. Stephen's, with a property worth about $300,000, and a communicant list of 1,300. The Rev. Wm. Appleton Lawrence, son of the Bishop, is rector. The Church of the Incarnation, the Rev. Wm. Inglis Morse, rector, has a monetary valuation of nearly $30,000, and is raising a rector's endowment fund of $10,000. There are about 300 communicants. Speaking of the work, the rector says, "there is plenty to do, and what we can't do we leave undone. We took over the block next to the church for over $10,000, and already have part of the fund paid up. The income of this new venture is to be used for the benefit of the rector, either to furnish a rectory, there being two houses on the lot, or enable him to rent one in a suitable place. The rear house will be used for social work in the neighborhood." A memorial window will be placed in the church Easter. It is donated by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob A. Evans, of Memphis, Tennessee, in memory of Miss Elizabeth Boyle, former president of the St. Margaret's Guild of the parish. The glass is designed by Mr. Connick, of Boston, on the theme of St. Margaret at Antioch, with the dragon at her feet. This parish laments the recent loss of its senior warden, Mr. William N. Williams, who held office for twenty years: "Faithfulness," says the rector, "was the keynote of his relations to the church."
