As suggested, we have represented the Baptism of Our Lord by Saint John the Baptist, and the Young Christ in the Temple among the Doctors.

Little kneeling angels enrich the triangular spaces at the top, with the Blessed Virgin in one corner coming to find her son in the temple.

The Descending Dove appears above the Baptized Christ.

I am not at all sure about the order of these panels. I think I should prefer them to read from left to right instead of as they are, in spite of the fact that the Nativity is around the corner, and the Visitation on the other side.
