General Information To be of the general idea of the Forest Lawn Mausoleum window (Seated girl with book, etc.), but with very much less field, - the medallion filling most of the window. They will send us a couple of lines from one of the daughter's poems. They will also send a book with the daughter's poems.

Window to be in pastels, soft shades of green and gold. See the two post cards they left to illustrate their ideas of color - also a photograph of the daughter in color, in whose memory the window is being placed. They do not want a likeness, but would like us to keep in mind the general characteristics.

*The Mausoleum pays $500 of this sum.

Poem to be used in the window:
"Where is the light of spring?,
You ask, and I shall answer; for the robins sing,
The blossoms cloak the garden wall.
We do not see it - that is all." - Joyce Glueck.
