General Information Christ in the Temple

The second window, to follow the Nativity, is devoted to the boy Christ with the Doctors in the Temple, "both hearing them, and asking them questions." (St. Luke 2:46). Small figures in white above, suggest His mother and Joseph, returning to find Him. They can be clearly represented in the full size renderings.

Old Testament scrolls pattern the field, with the seven branched candlestick and a symbol of the Jesse Tree, Our Lord's lineage with the Chi Rho at the top.

At one side is the Tree of Life and the Lamp of Learning, and at the other, the Globe surmounted by the Cross, symbol of Christ's power over the world.

Foliated forms complete the enrichment. The border of gold contrasts with the blue of the Nativity window.
