Changes:

Letter January 20, 1971.

"We could show you rough copies of the portions, with the sailor's hands well apart and, in the right lancet (nor below), the pink omitted from the clouds with strong yellow dominating.

those in peril on the sea, beginning, - "Eternal Father, strong to save, Whose arm hath bound the restless wave."

At the left the one in peril on the life raft looks toward Our Lord who stands in the prow of the boat in an attitude of welcome, about to command the sea to be still.

Below Him the sea is calm under rays of warm light from above.

In the opposite medallion the turbulent sea rolls under storm clouds, broken with the light of promise.

Above Christ is the trefoil symbol of the Trinity and over the traveler, the descending Dove of the Holy Spirit.
